

News of the World in Pictures

A PANZER CHIEF

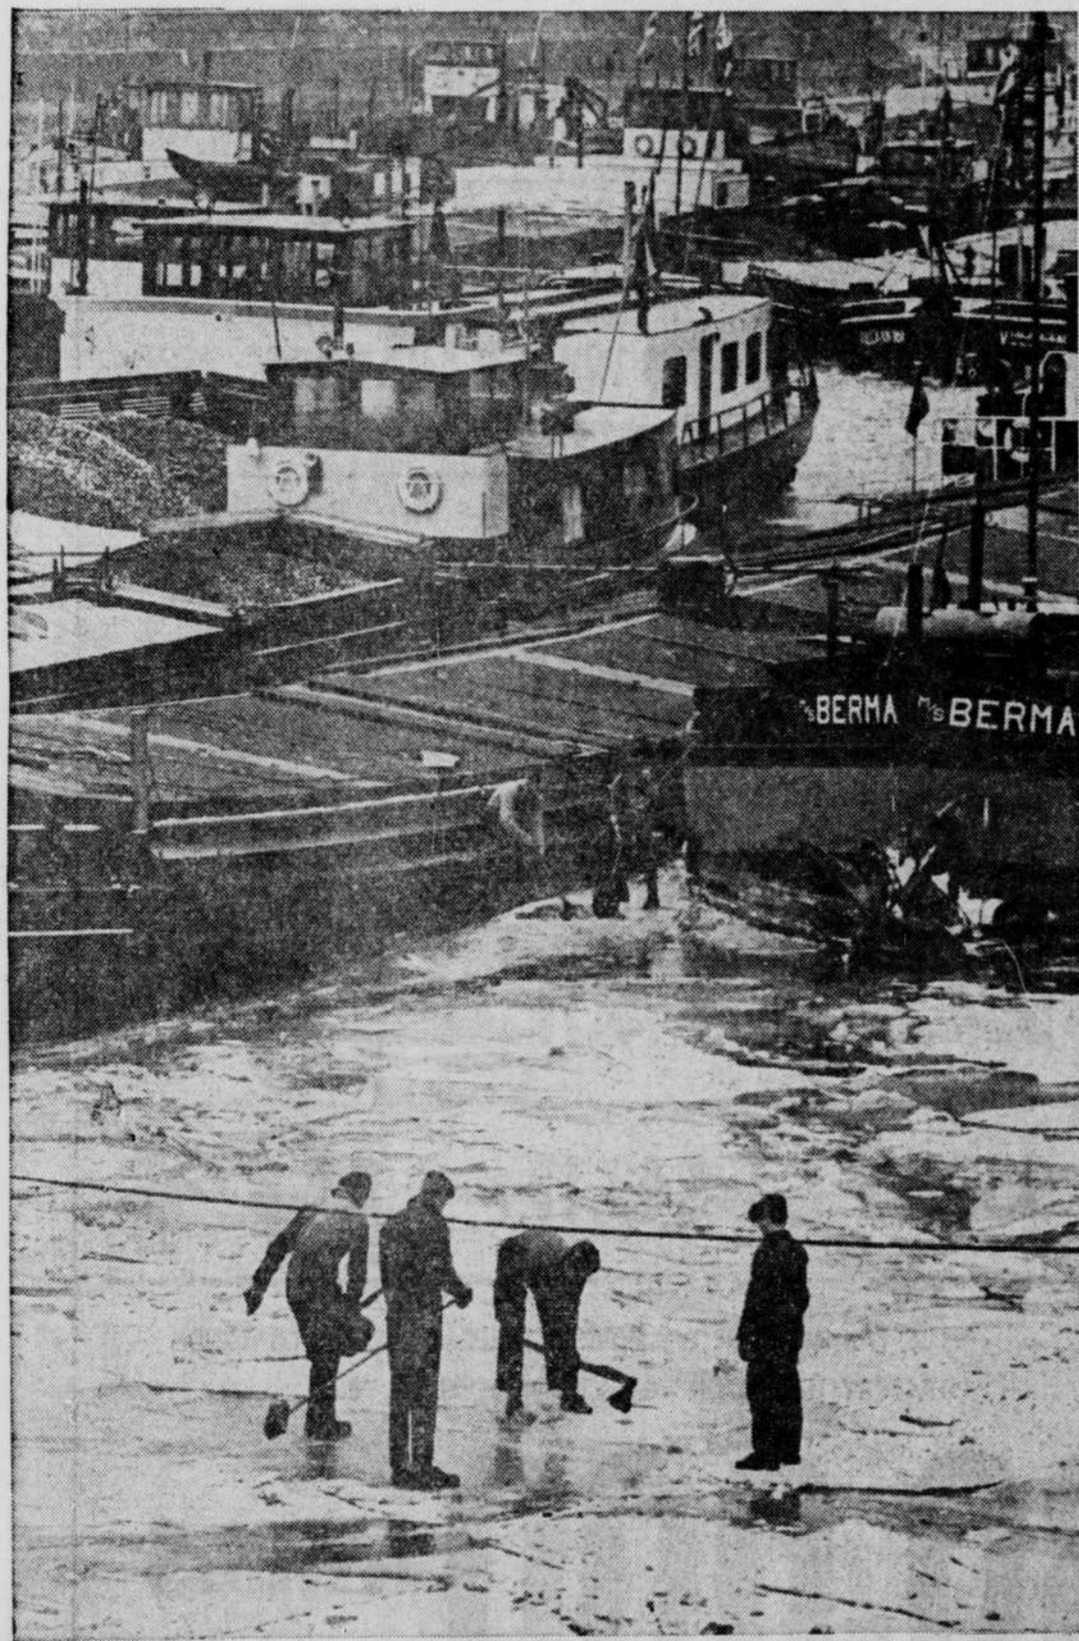

AT TIMES, U.S. Army Maj. Edward P. Freedman must marvel at the way the tides of history change. He has an unusual command. He is the acting commander of a German army tank unit, part of the Third Panzer Brigade, located on the Weser River at Langendamm, West Germany. He was assigned to the West German forces for a year in an officer-exchange program designed to strengthen good will and understanding among various troops making the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Major Freedman (right) studies a mission.

Tanks fire at targets on the gunnery range commanded by Major Freedman.

He mounts a telescope on stools to check on the targets used by his German gunners on range.

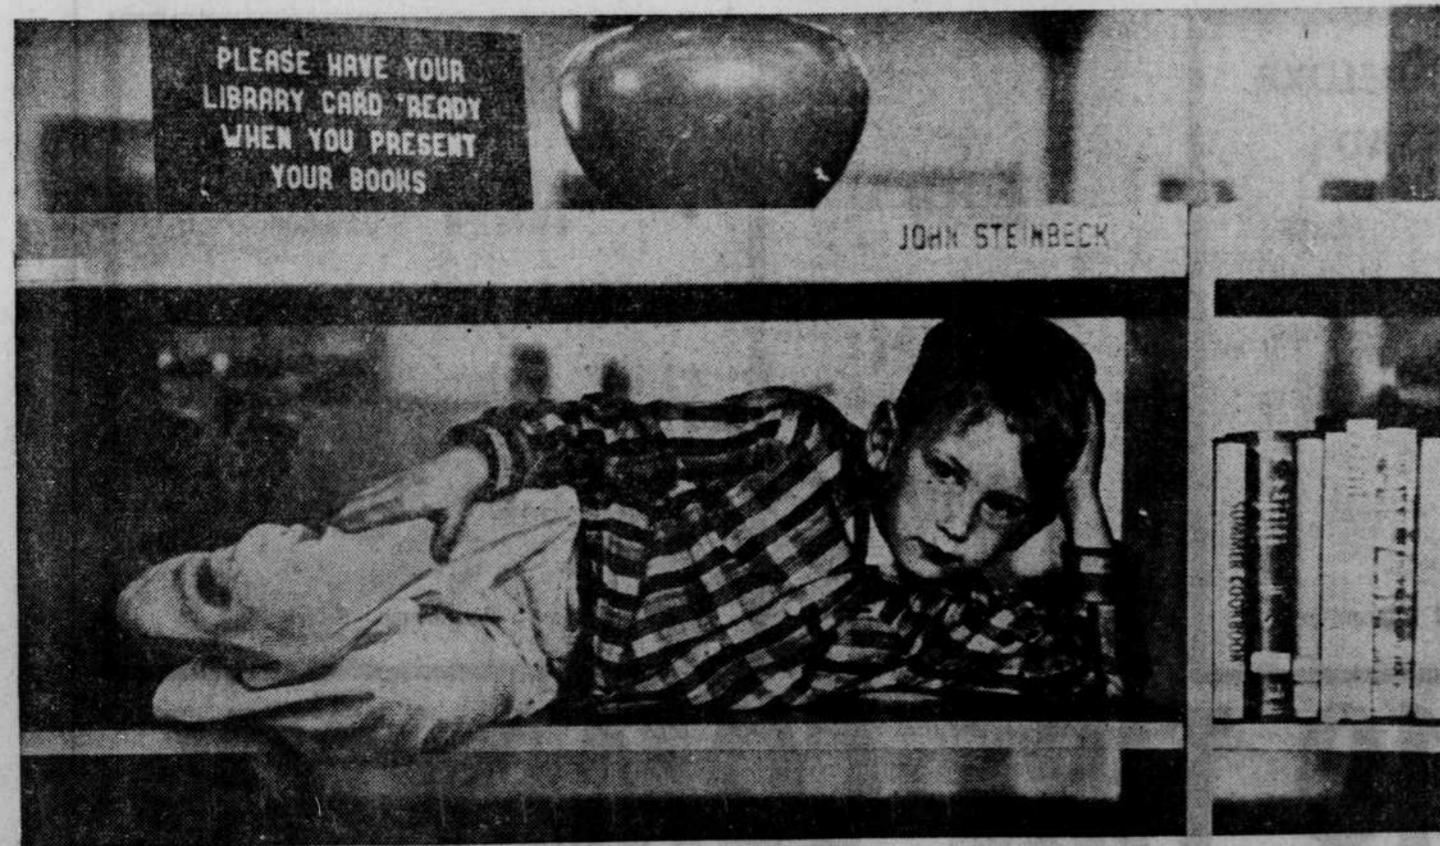

HUMAN ICE BREAKERS—Those sailors aren't trying to chop the ice away for those vessels in harbor of St. Goarshausen, Germany. They are going ice fishing.

NOT IN FOCUS—The lens of the camera produces different reactions from this Indian boy (top) and girl (bottom) on the Calcutta-Diamond Harbor road in Bengal. The two youngsters and their families were fishing in the area.

MILKO AND HONEY—Lovely Gina Lollobrigida and son, Milko, make friends with lion cub named Milko. Gina bought cub as a gift for a friend in Rome, Italy.

HE'S A LIBRARY CARD—Young John Lisk got tired of waiting for someone to bring back one of author John Steinbeck's books, so he reserved a spot for himself. John lives in Steinbeck's home town, Salinas, Calif.

HAT'S MEOW—A furrier introduces this matching cat hat and ocelot coat in a show in London, England.

MOVING THEIR MUSCLES—An armored car leads a convoy of U.N. troops in the Jadotville area of the province of Katanga. The forces are on guard duty.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate.